This itinerary offers a full day to return to nature and experience the local flora and fauna of Lake Humantay during a short hike. Marvel at this beautiful lake, as well as valleys and mountains sacred to the Incas, and enjoy stunning views of the glacier.

Day 1: Cusco - Lake Humantay - Cusco

We will pick you up from your hotel at around 4:00 to 5:00 am for the 2-hour bus ride to Mollepata (2800 m), located high above the Apurimac valley. During the journey, you will be able to enjoy the spectacular scenery of the Anta and Limatambo areas.

After a good breakfast, we will drive you for around 90 minutes to Soraypampa (3800 m), from where we can admire the imposing Salkantay and Humantay glaciers.

The climb to Lake Humantay (4200 m) takes around 2 hours, where the green and turquoise waters contrast with the white snow of the Humantay glacier. This is an opportunity to immerse yourself in a landscape that was sacred to the Incas.

We will return to Mollepata for a nourishing lunch.

Return to Cusco around 6.00 pm.
